

INTEGRASCREEN ANNOUNCES ACQUISITION OF DATAFLOW SERVICES INDIA

Singapore, May 14, 2008 — IntegraScreen, a global provider of enhanced due diligence services, immigration screening and risk data, today announced it had taken a majority stake in DataFlow Services, a privately held Indian company which verifies educational qualifications.

This acquisition will strengthen IntegraScreen's leadership position in immigration screening and as a data provider to international background screening companies. The combination of IntegraScreen's database of over 600 million records relevant to background verification in India and DataFlow's 5 million plus proprietary database of education records - the largest in India - brings together significant customer, technical and channel synergies. This will allow IntegraScreen to strengthen its market position and leverage on DataFlow's extensive data and customer base to offer more comprehensive services to the background screening industry.

"DataFlow Services is the ideal company for us to acquire with its unique focus, strong domestic market presence and great expertise in delivering fast and accurate verifications," said IntegraScreen managing director, Scott Graham. "The move also accelerates IntegraScreen's strategic initiatives to be the data provider of choice for India's rapidly growing domestic background screening market, as well as to offer our government clients more data resources to screen visa applicants."

Dalip Bhalla, CEO of DataFlow Services, said IntegraScreen's global reach, strategic vision and reputation for high-quality deliverables were what his company was seeking to take Dataflow to the next level. "Our joint customers, partners and employees will benefit greatly as we create strategic integration of our products, raise our visibility and expand our portfolio of services to the background screening industry" he said.
